Dear parents/carers,

Chickenpox

I am aware that we have had an outbreak of chickenpox in the lower end of school which is not uncommon but can be uncomfortable for some children. I would like to take this opportunity to remind you that, if your child has chicken pox, they should remain off school until all of the spots have crusted over to avoid infecting other children. Additionally children should not return to school if they are taking pain relief medication or antihistamines to relieve the symptoms of chickenpox.

Many thanks for your assistance with this matter.

Yours sincerely

Mr S Bill
