

Unplugged games

Forehead Detective Everyone takes it in turn to have a post-it note stuck on their forehead with the name of a well-known person on it. Players have to ask 'yes/no' type questions until they find out who they are.	Gargle a Song Are you brave enough?! Fill a glass, sing a song. The others must try to guess which one.	Wink Murder You need a playing card for each person (make sure one is the Ace of Spades!) The person who gets the Ace of Spades is the murderer, who 'kills' a person by winking discreetly. If someone is winked at they have to slump and play dead. Everyone else tries to identify the murderer. A wrong challenge means you are out of the game.
What's Wrong? Players split into teams and one team leaves the room. While they are out, five objects are moved. The team has 2 minutes to identify what is different.	Stare Contest Put players into pairs. Each pair tries to stare at the other person without blinking (or laughing). The world record is 22 minutes – can you beat it?
I went to the shop and bought... An apple, a banana... Players take it in turns to repeat original item, and add a new one – see how far you can get! For older children you can make it trickier by following the letters of the alphabet.	Charades Each team thinks up a list of phrases: song, book or film titles, proverbs, and so on. Team 1 gives the first one to a player on team 2, who has to act it out for the rest of their team. When they guess it swap over.	Likes and Dislikes Everyone writes down a list of five things they like and 5 things they don't like. These are then given to one player who reads each list out in turn. Everyone to guess who wrote the list!
