Dear Parents/Carers,

The announcement by Boris Johnson this evening

As I am sure you will have seen, Boris Johnson has moved all schools to remote learning with immediate effect, with the exception of key workers and vulnerable pupils. As you can imagine, we will need a bit of time to establish our key worker families, organise the groups and timetable the school day for the upcoming period. I will contact you in the morning to let you know how to apply for a keyworker place.

Therefore, tomorrow we will be spending the day completing those tasks ready to accept our key workers into school on Wednesday 6th January. This means that all pupils will be educated remotely tomorrow.

The exception to this are the key workers' children in Class R and in Class 1 who we identified and were in contact with this afternoon. These pupils may come to school as communicated (9-3.15pm) tomorrow.

Many thanks for your continued patience and understanding at this most challenging of times.

Mr S Bill
Headteacher
